NEW QUESTION: 3

Your company makes use of S3 buckets for storing data

a. There is a company policy that all services should have logging enabled. How can you ensure that logging is always enabled for created S3 buckets in the AWS Account?

Please select:

A. Use AWS Inspector to inspect all S3 buckets and enable logging for those where it is not enabled

B. Use AWS Cloudwatch metrics to check whether logging is enabled for buckets

C. Use AWS Cloudwatch logs to check whether logging is enabled for buckets This is given in the AWS Documentation as an example rule in AWS Config Example rules with triggers Example rule with configuration change trigger

D. Use AWS Config Rules to check whether logging is enabled for buckets

Answer: D

Explanation:

1. You add the AWS Config managed rule, S3_BUCKET_LOGGING_ENABLED, to your account to check whether your Amazon S3 buckets have logging enabled.

2. The trigger type for the rule is configuration changes. AWS Config runs the evaluations for the rule when an Amazon S3 bucket is created, changed, or deleted.

3. When a bucket is updated, the configuration change triggers the rule and AWS Config evaluates whether the bucket is compliant against the rule.

Option A is invalid because AWS Inspector cannot be used to scan all buckets Option C and D are invalid because Cloudwatch cannot be used to check for logging enablement for buckets.

For more information on Config Rules please see the below Link: <https://docs.aws.amazon.com/config/latest/developerguide/evaluate-config-rules.html> The correct answer is: Use AWS Config Rules to check whether logging is enabled for buckets Submit your Feedback/Queries to our Experts
