Refer to the exhibit.

When a CNA host connects to the virtual interface of the switch, what will happen?

- A. The host will not connect. The vFC port number does not match the Ethernet interface.
- B. The host will negotiate using DCBX and will change parameters as required, but a shut/no shut is needed on the interface.

C. The switch will not initialize because it is in the wrong mode.

D. The host will negotiate using DCBX and connect properly.

Answer: C

Explanation:

In expansion port (E port) mode, an interface functions as a fabric expansion port. This port may be connected to another E port to create an Inter-Switch Link (ISL) between two switches. E ports carry frames between switches for configuration and fabric management. They serve as a conduit between switches for frames destined to remote N ports. E ports support class 3 and class F service.

An E port connected to another switch may also be configured to form a SAN port channel.
